Accessibility

This site has been designed to be accessible and intuitive to use. This page describes the approach taken in order to achieve this. If you experience any difficulties while accessing pages on this website, please contact New Digital Frontier describing the issues experienced and we will endeavour to resolve them.

Format & Content:

All pages on this site use HTML markup, allowing for consistent styling and increased usability for users of assistive technologies. All pages should validate as XHTML 1.0 Strict, however as this is a regularly updated site this may not always be the case. New Digital Frontier has endeavoured to present as much pertinent information as possible contained in this site as plain text to maximise usability for users of assistive technologies. .
